British Report Says Albanian Battalion With Italians Has Mutinied

By A. E. ANGELOPOULOS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ATHENS, Nov. 21.—Italian forces were reported in retreat along virtually the entire war front today as the Greeks cracked the Fascist lines on the central sector and smashed from the Epirus region into Albania.

(Editor's Note: An exchange telegraph (British) report said it was learned from an authoritative source that an Albanian battalion serving with the Italians "mutinied and has been disarmed.")

Break Through

The break-through on the central front was achieved by the Greeks after they launched a particularly violent attack upon a road leading from Calyvaki to Premeta.

Officials in Athens said this latest success was on prime strategic importance.

At the same time, it was reported Greek forces in the region of Koritza, the Italian military base in Southern Albania, took 297 prisoners, 37 machine guns, one tank and a number of Caissons.

In the Pindus mountain area, it was added, they also captured a large amount of war material, driving the Italians into a "veritable rout."

Announce Advances

The advance northward from the Epirus region was announced in a high command communique which said:

"In the Epirus, our armies after successful fighting in the last few

Consider Possible Plan To Replace Street Cars With Bus Lines Here

As a result of a conference, Wednesday afternoon in city hall, between council and William Muldoon, vice president and general manager of the New Castle Street Electric railway it is possible that buses may be substituted for street cars here.

Following the conference, Solicitor Robert White was instructed to invite State Superintendent of highways D. S. Hughes here for a conference with city officials for the purpose of ascertaining the attitude of the state highways department relative to repair of state maintained highways where there are rails.

Mr. Muldoon informed council that the company was willing to give the city all the assets which may be realized from the sale of the company's property here as the company's share toward the cost of materials required to put the street car rail area in good condition.

It was not definitely learned yesterday what the state highway department would require if the city

GERMANY SEEKS TO HALT INDUSTRY

Terrific Air Battles Occur As Second Raid Is Made On District

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 21.—German raiders renewed their smashing attacks on England's midlands last night and early today, raking industrial targets in an apparent effort to wipe out British war industries in that vitally important industrial region.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A Berlin announcement said that strong forces of Nazi bombers attacked Birmingham for the second night in succession, but that smoke from fires and unfavorable weather prevented detailed observation of the damages. Objectives in southern and middle England, including the great port of Liverpool, also were attacked, according to Berlin reports.)

Light Attacks On London

London also was attacked intermittently throughout the night but damage in the capital was light. The all-clear signal, ending London's 353rd alarm of the war, sounded shortly before 8 a. m.

Late this morning there were two new daylight alarms in London, the capital's 354th and 355th of the war. No incidents in the London area were reported immediately.

Scores of German raiders—so many that for more than an hour they dropped bombs on one area at the rate of one a second—hammered wide sections of the midlands area.

Federal Sales Tax Is Being Projected For Defense Revenue

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—A federal sales tax, estimated to yield $800,000,000 annually, was favored in some official quarters today as the principal means of increasing government revenues next year.

Treasury and congressional tax experts, studying all possible methods of providing additional funds to help pay for huge armament costs, insisted, however, that no specific revenue plan has been drafted.

Some treasury experts expressed the view that an increase in individual income taxes is unwise at this time. The income tax burden was made heavier by imposition of an extra defense levy earlier this year and through lowering of married and single exemptions.

Close To Confiscatory Point

These experts pointed to the fact that the majority of taxpayers must pay state income taxes on top of the federal levies. In the upper income brackets this tax load is close to the confiscatory point, they explained.

Deny Report That Indiantown Gap To Be Extended

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—The quartermaster general's office at Washington today denied reports that the Indiantown Gap military reservation, near Harrisburg, would soon double its present acreage to handle the training of national guardsmen and draftees.

The Pennsylvania national guard reservation has now been taken over by the federal government.

The quartermaster general's office said one national guard division of 18,000 men would be trained at Indiantown Gap, presumably the Pennsylvania national guard which is to be inducted into service in January.

In state military circles the belief was prevalent, however, that the 13,000-acre reservation would be considerably enlarged before long. Adjutant General Edward Martin recently disclosed that attempts were being made to buy more land.

Partial Observance Of Thanksgiving Occurs In Pennsylvania Today

(International News Service)

Pennsylvania today observes the first of the state's two Thanksgiving days—that designated by President Roosevelt. A week from today Pennsylvanians will observe the day set aside by Gov. Arthur H. James.

Thanksgiving day will be observed by the banks (which will remain closed both days), by federal courts, by some labor organizations and by citizens in general who wish to observe the president's proclamation.

With one exception, all state offices at the capitol will remain open for business, but will close next Wednesday evening until the following Monday. Governor James said he would be at work today as usual at the executive offices. The state treasury, Democratic-controlled, will be closed today and next Thursday.

The city of Harrisburg and Dauphin county both declared today a holiday. They also will observe next Thursday. The federal post office, however, will remain open.

Stores Open Today

Retail merchants will remain open today, but will advance the holiday season by one week, opening it this Saturday instead of November 30, the State Retailers Association reported.

King George Sees Victory For Britain

Tells Parliament That He Is "Confident Of Victory" In War

U. S. ASSISTANCE IS GRATIFYING

King And Queen Drive In State To Houses Of Parliament Today

By ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 21.—With increased American war assistance, King George told parliament today, "I am confident of victory."

As Nazi raiders were being beaten off from London, the king spoke at the ceremonial opening of a new session of parliament.

Relations of my government with that of the United States could not be more cordial," he said.

"I learn with the utmost satisfaction of the ever-increasing volume of the munitions of war which is arriving from that country."

The King and Queen drove in state to the houses of parliament, and all ceremonies was observed, but public pageantry of former years when thousands thronged the Mall and Whitehall was eliminated.

People And Allies United

Credit For Great Britain To Be Urged

Likely Next Move To Aid England

Twenty-Six Long Range Bombers Are Released To Britain

SUPER-BOMBERS WILL BE GREAT AID

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, JR.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Extension of credit for the purchase of more fighting equipment appeared likely today as the next major move in the United States' program of supplying Great Britain with "all aid short of war".

On the heels of an announcement that this country has released its most powerful long range bombing planes to the embattled country, it was learned that a fight will be opened soon in congress to supply England with loans.

Two Acts Needed

Two acts of congress will be needed to accomplish this—repeal of the Johnson act which forbids loans to nations defaulting on their World war debts, and repeal of the provision in the neutrality act forbidding credit to belligerent countries.

Just how soon this action will be sought was uncertain, depending on how soon England will be desperate for money. It was expected that if the proposal is not introduced at the current session it will be made early next year.

Meanwhile military spokesmen pointed out that except for actual extension of credit under which the United States would help finance Britain's war, this country is now doing just about all it can.

Even President Roosevelt's "rule of thumb", under which England is to get half of U. S. military output, has been exceeded, for the United States is permitting all of 26 giant bombing planes, originally ordered for this government, to pass into British hands.

Badly Needed

These 20-ton super bombers, capable of 3,000-mile flights, are manufactured by the Consolidated Aircraft company of San Diego, Cal.

In addition to releasing these ships, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, announced that negotiations are under way to give Britain 20 of the Boeing Aircraft company's "flying fortresses" which are almost identical with the Consolidated craft. All of the planes will be equipped with the famous Sperry bombsight.

Planes, especially these bombers which can penetrate deep into enemy territory, are the equipment most needed by England now, and British purchasing agents are concentrating in this field.

The president's rule, however, applies to all military equipment, and as soon as Britain calls for them this country will turn over quantities of guns, shells, tanks and other material.

Britain is said to be in need of more warships for convoy work, and reports persist that this country will give her another 50 "overage" destroyers similar to the 50 recently traded for lease of British Atlantic naval bases.

FEDERAL SALES TAX BEING PROJECTED FOR DEFENSE REVENUE

soundly defeated sales tax legislation, some experts believe this type of tax might be approved for the duration of the emergency.

Exempt Food, Medicine

Food and medicine presumably would be exempted from any sales tax plan. Many states already impose sales taxes and using these as yardsticks, the experts estimate that with both foodstuffs and medicine exempted a normal annual yield of $800,000,000 can be attained.

New taxes were discussed yesterday by President Roosevelt and Rep. Doughton (D) N. C., chairman of the house ways and means committee. Doughton said people would pay more taxes cheerfully if efforts are made to economize in the normal expenditures of the government.

It is the opinion of some experts that a federal sales tax, labelled as a specific national defense tax, would be accepted without murmur at this time.

NAZI BOMBERS IN NEW ATTACKS UPON MIDLANDS

pecially at an eastern midlands town. British fighters dived at them and one of the fiercest night air battles ever seen over England ensued.

Searchlight shot beams into the night sky and anti-aircraft guns threw up a terrific barrage of fire.

After unloading bombs of the heaviest calibre on the eastern midlands city, the raiders dived to a low altitude and machine-gunned a large area, inflicting some casualties.

They dropped innumerable flares but reports stated that most of their bombs fell on open ground, shattering windows of nearby shops and houses. Other Nazi planes bombed rural districts in the midlands, causing slight damage and a few casualties.

German Report

Berlin, Nov. 21.—Hundreds of German planes delivered a second, consecutive "staggering blow" on the English midlands city of Birmingham during the night, German quarters declared today.

They said that the German raiders dumped another 200,000 pounds of high explosive bombs on industrial sections of the important British manufacturing center which escaped the "paralyzing" Nazi aerial blows of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Belief was expressed in Berlin circles that the second attack left Birmingham's war-time industries "practically ruined."

Mass night raids also were directed against numerous other important British cities and port, including London, where 60,000 pounds of high explosives were dropped during the night, German officials stated.

PRESIDENT OBSERVES THANKSGIVING DAY AT HYDE PARK HOME

in constant touch was not overly bright. Just before he left last night for his home, the president gave General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, a green light on release of 46 of America's deadliest long-range bombers to the British. Military circles regarded this as a speedy answer to German bombing of England's key industrial centers, including Coventry and Birmingham.

Attends Services

This morning, President and Mrs. Roosevelt occupied their pew in Hyde Park's St. James Episcopal church and joined with their rector, Rev. Frank R. Wilson, in offering a Thanksgiving prayer for continued peace in the western hemisphere.

Beside the president in the family pew his proud 86-year-old mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, was placed. She was waiting at the door of the comfortable mansion where her son was born 59 years ago to greet him this morning when he and Mrs. Roosevelt arrived from Washington.

Converging also on Hyde Park for the third - Thursday - in - November Thanksgiving date proclaimed by the president—and being observed by 32 states and the District of Columbia as against 16 states which still hold to the old fourth-Thursday date—were Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and his wife, the former Ethel Dupont. Their infant son, Franklin, third, has been at Hyde Park for some weeks.

Other Roosevelt children were spending the Thanksgiving holiday with their own families in such widely separated points as Seattle and Boston.

The governor stated that "for every message not in favor of the traditional Thanksgiving (the last Thursday of November) there have been three messages from those in favor of continuing the American tradition."

In breaking with tradition last year and advancing Thanksgiving day by a week, President Roosevelt explained that he did so at the request of business men who wished to lengthen the pre-Christmas holiday season.

"Our aircraft successfully bombed the Argyrocastro airdrome and on the field of battle bombed and machine gunned retreating enemy columns.

"Enemy planes borbed two towns in the Epirus and Thessaly, killing and injuring some persons."

Reports reaching athens said the Greek advances in the Epirus have driven the Italians to positions just outside Konispoli and Argyrocastro, with the Greeks capturing heavy guns, tanks and "scores of machine guns."

Other Greek forces were reported closing in on burning Koritza from the east and south and that only a violent counter-attack prevented the Greeks from entering the city yesterday.

Welcoming the fight of Greece, the king added:

"By calculated treasury and violence Germany has brought under her yoke many free nations.... taking advantage of French misfortunes, Italy seized the opportunity to range herself with the aggressor, and now has launched a wanton attack on Greece.

"We have not done so badly. And I look forward with confidence and hope to the time when we shall be as well-armed as our antagonists. Will Do Best Churchill pledged that Britain would "do her best" to defend the Suez Canal, and would give all possible aid to Greece.

"Deeds, not words, are what are expected of us," the prime minister said. "We certainly hope that we shall be able to give from our already heavily-strained resources a helpful measure to the Greeks and discharge our responsibility to Egypt."

Whereas the situation in Egypt was a "doubtful affair" several months ago, Churchill said he was more confidence of the outcome when "the invading forces shall fall upon us."

CONSIDER PLAN TO REPLACE STREET CARS WITH BUS LINES HERE

agrees to the abandonment of the existing franchises. This is one of the angles the city desires to learn if Mr. Hughes agrees to come here for a conference.

Members of city council stated during the conference they were favorable toward the substitution of a bus transportation system for the present street car system providing the work can be done as a city-WPA project.

Under this system the cost of the materials would be borne by the city and the WPA pay for the labor. The company would turn over to the city as reimbursement the money realized from a sale of the present property.

Councilmen stated they would be willing to cooperate toward securing a bus system providing it does not cost the taxpayers money.

During the reign of Queen Elizabeth of England, coal burning was made illegal during the period when parliament was in session because of the smoke nuisance.

American Press Most Efficient

Highest Standards Of Integrity Maintained, Says Alleged Propagandist

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—The American Press maintains the highest standards of integrity, and is the most efficient in the world, according to excerpts from the white papers of the Dies committee quoting Manfred Zapp head of the Transocean News Service, an alleged German propaganda agency.

In a letter to the German foreign office, Zapp admitted he had met with the "stiffest resistance" in his attempts to furnish transocean news to the American Press.

"Better than any other press in the world the American Press is informed of foreign political affairs in Europe through its regular correspondent as well as through well known large news agencies," Zapp said.

"Americans hold the peculiar subjection notion that only they are objective and consequently they will not read news that does not sail under their own flag.... conditions are exactly the same with radio."

Relief Rolls Show Big Drop In State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21—There has been a 37 per cent drop in the combined federal and state relief rolls in Pennsylvania since February 1939, the Department of Public Assistance disclosed today.

Except for a slight upturn during the first few months of 1940, the combined state assistance and federal WPA rolls have been moving downward since February 1939 when they reached a peak of 1,817,000 persons following the business recession of 1938.

The drop from the 1939 peak to the current low points amounts to 678,000 persons, or 37 per cent, Secretary of Public Assistance Howard L. Russell declared.

The combined relief rolls dropped to a record low point for the third time in as many months during October declining by 28,000 persons from the month before.

The combined average number of persons on both state and federal relief in October totalled 1,139,000.

In Thomas Jefferson's first draft of the Declaration of Independence the words "all men are created equal and independent" appeared, for some reason the words "and independent" were later scratched out.

DESIGN FOR PEACE

IN THIS war, unlike that of 1914-18, there is no great pressure of governments or of public opinion for combatant nations to state their war aims. The war aim of the Axis powers is to dominate the world. The war aim of Great Britain is to defeat Hitler. Britain has no time for academic discussion of what will follow, if that can be accomplished.

Just as happened when the United States was still neutral in that last war, there are groups at work here endeavoring to plot the form of the ultimate peace. A group of members of a Committee to Study the Organization of Peace announces, in a preliminary report, "the principles upon which international relations must be reorganized, after the present conflict, if peace is to prevail." The committee, which includes several distinguished educators, implies that unless German aggression is halted there will be no peace to organize.

The ultimate peace, in this group's opinion, must rest upon a sort of super-League of Nations. There must be a world court, international legislative bodies to correct abuses, international regulation of communications and transport, wise administration of backward areas and a world police force to prevent aggression and support international covenants. All of which has a reminiscent, familiar ring.

There is no harm in such studies, even if there isn't much present profit in them, either. In what state the world will find itself at the end of this war none can predict. The League of Nations proved that it was no wiser and no stronger than its component nations. The League failed. It will require a great deal of persuasion to induce international faith in such an organization again. As to the evils of aggressive armament, extreme nationalism and the use of force there is no disagreement ouside the Axis powers, but how those powers, unless subjected to crushing defeat, are to be fitted into a democratic world order is not apparent. No studies can figure that out.

The first requisite is the defeat of Hitler. How that is to be accomplished and what the state of domestic and international relationships will be if that is done—or not done—cannot be foreseen.

ENDING AMERICAN DEPENDENCY

The Christmas shopping season, now opening so much earlier than in many years, is serving to emphasize the increased offerings of domestic articles due to the shutting-off of exports because of the European war.

Just before the outbreak of hostilities some of the reciprocal trade treaties were threatening to let in a flood of foreign manufacturers in competition with our domestic producers.

Now the change in the situation means not only more work for many of our factories turning out luxuries and necessaries, but the starting of new industries. Before the World War this country was chiefly dependent upon Germany for dyes and a long line of chemicals. The emergency caused the rise of a great domestic chemical industry which now leads the world.

New York is now replacing Amsterdam as the centre of the diamond cutting industry. Large quantities of rough diamonds are being sent here directly from South Africa.

We are now starting also to smelt tin in the United States and there have been some interesting developments in making a number of important substitutes for rubber.

No matter how soon peace may be restored in Europe—and it now looks far away—it will be succeeded by the keenest commercial competition ever known. We are seeking to supply necessities for our own use, but we may have new products to offer in world markets when the war is over.

CURIOUS TAX CASE

Maybe "nothing is law that is not reason," but sometimes a doubt will arise. For instance:

Some state laws prohibit corporations chartered by them from payment of dividends from current profits, if there is an existing deficit from a previous year not fully absorbed. For that reason a company in the state of Washington and another in North Dakota paid no dividends in 1936, although they had made substantial profits. Yet, despite the state prohibition, the Revenue Bureau at Washington held both liable for surtaxes on undistributed profits as levied by the revenue act of 1936. The purpose of this surtax was primarily to force payment of dividends which therefore exempt became taxable in the hands of the stockholder.

Since they were not permitted by the states to distribute profits, the companies appealed to the courts against the Revenue Bureau ruling. A provision in the Federal act exempted from surtax all undistributed profits which could not be paid out as dividends without violating a provision of a written contract.

There was thus posed two interrelated questions—whether corporation charters are written contracts and whether the law intended a credit or deduction to be allowed corporations prevented by state law from paying dividends. Two Circuit Courts of Appeals took opposite stands, but the final determination by the Supreme Court of the United States is against the corporations, and they have no alternative than to pay the tax, which would have been less or not imposed if dividends had been paid.

Thus the losing corporations are ground between the upper millstone of Federal law and the nether stone of state law. The fault, of course, is with the Federal law.

No doubt Mussolini would like to know what Julius Caesar had that he doesn't have.

Remember the good old pre-automobile days when the only thing you stopped to ask for at the side of the road was a glass of water?

The nineteenth century children were entertained with stories and jingles from Mother Goose. Now even a wild west serial on the radio is almost too blase.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

THE INATTENTIVE CHILD

Many parents, even some teachers, believe they can make a child attentive to what he is supposed to learn at home or school by telling him to attend and chastizing him when he does not. Parents write me they have received notes from the teacher complaining that the child does not "pay attention at school," and expecting the parent to do something about it. The parent wishing to cooperate with the teacher will plead with this child about his lack of attention or will lecture, scold or even whip him.

The teacher should know better. She should know that it is her responsibility to make the child attend. It is her responsibility to win his attention. Accordingly she needs to learn to assign and present his lessons in such a way that his attention will be attracted to them. Of course, she can hardly hope to gain his complete attention all the time nor the attention of all the children most of the time. Nevertheless her goal should be to win attention and not to order it by commands or punishment.

Make It Interesting

The child pays attention when what he is supposed to learn is interesting and easy enough for him to learn and seems to him worth learning. Most of all he must feel he can learn what he is supposed to learn if he is to give his best attention to it and work hard at it.

A few children grow inattentive because what is going on is too easy. Some of these children grow into habits, then, of day dreaming. Before they know it things go on which they have missed and they are left far behind.

As a result the child is inattentive because he is not mastering what he is supposed to learn: it is too hard for him. If, for example, he must halt or stumble over every other word or so, or if he must count out most of the simple numbers he adds or subtracts, how can he keep up his interest and work hard? How can he pay strict attention to such tasks? He cannot. So he turns his thoughts to something easier and more fascinating.

The wise teacher sets him to learn only what he can succeed in learning. If, therefore, he is in the fourth grade and can read well only from a primer or first reader she will have him read from materials no harder, letting him stay where he is. Other children, of course, grow inattentive because they don't hear well or see well.

Don't Demand Attention

Please, my fellow teacher and fellow parent, don't tell the child to pay attention. Tell yourself, instead, to find ways to make it practically impossible for him not to attend.

One good way for parents to cultivate habits of attention in the child is to read aloud to him at home and to induce him to read to a child under five or six; also to put into his hands illustrated easy reading matter which will capture his interest. If, as you read to the child his mind wanders, don't rebuke him. Find something to read which is more interesting to him and keep on in this direction till you win.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

GEOGRAPHY

Perhaps the people of Lawrence County will remember the story of the local school boy who was considered by his teachers and schoolmates as being somewhat deficient in mentality. This is the boy who, when asked by a grownup how he was getting along in school and what studies did he like best, said: "We study George Graphy and Dick Shinery. I like George Graphy best for Dick Shinery changes the subject too often."

If that boy has become a grownup and is still alive, and his mentality has improved, he might not be of the same opinion, for the geography of this world has become very much like "Dick Shinery"—it changes now just about as rapidly as the dictionary.

We have seen Austria, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Belgium, Holland, Norway, France and Rumania disappear practically as nations—nothing left but their language and their traditions—their governments that of the German Dictatorship. The only European nations left at this writting are Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Turkey and Russia. The Baltic nations have only a semblance of a government. They are all under the thumb of Stalin and Hitler. Tomorrow's news may record the absolute distinction of all European governments, save that of Germany, Spain, Italy, and Russia.

There is an end, however, to all things and sooner or later jealousies and personal ambitions will wreck the Axis. Germany and Italy have found that Great Britain is a hard nut to crack that British determination is a real thing that the people under the dominion of John Bull will fight to the end, no matter what are the odds against them.

As I have said before, no matter what airplaines, no matter what ships, no matter what mechanized instruments of warfare are used in a war of this kind, the result is determined upon the ground itself. Nations do not live in the air or on the sea. They live upon the earth's surface, and upon the surface, generally in the mud, the last battle is fought.

Hints On Etiquette

"My husband made me give up my job when we married and he can't afford a maid, yet I know by the way he looks at me in my working clothes that he is becoming disillusioned. What is the answer.—Young wife.

You did not go to your office and appear before your employer to do your work in clothes that he would regard as shabby or unattractive. Therefore, why do your household work in clothes that will detract from your appeal to your husband? There is absolutely no reason why they should be ugly and shapeless. What will make them practical for housework is their color and material whether they are easily washable. There is no reason whatsoever way these materials and colors should be unbecoming to you and why your work dresses should not be fashioned on modish lines.

Other Reader's Questioned Answered

Question: Please tell me the correct method of seating guests at dinner.—Alice.

Answer: The host should sit at one end—the foot of the table, the hostess at the opposite end—the head. The seat at the host's right is always given to his dinner partner—the woman guest of honor, if there is one. The seat at his left should be reserved for the woman second in honor. The man guest of honor should be seated at hostess' right, the second in honor at her left. The other men and women should be seated in alternate places, never allowing two men, nor two women to sit side by side, unless an uneven number of guests makes this unavoidable. Do not place a husband and his wife together, although engaged couples are sometimes thus seated. Tact should be used in seating guests. Congenial people should be grouped together. Uncongenial people should be separated at table, or better still, not invited to the same party.

The third woman should sit at the right of the man of highest rank. The fourth at the left of the man of second rank. The lowest in rank should be seated nearest the center.

CONJUGATING VERBS

The teacher was trying to get the pupils to understand the dreadful business of conjugating verbs. "When I say 'I have, you have, he has,'" she exclaimed, "I am conjugating the verb 'to have.' Do you understand?" They did. "Very good. Now listen carefully. 'I love you love, he loves.' What is that?" Up shot little Tommy's hand. Tommy was a film enthusiast. "Please miss," he said, "it is one of them triangles where someone gets shot."

George Accepted On Foreign Affairs
Administration Forgets Purge Attempt
Believes In Hull's Reciprocal Program

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—Although President Roosevelt tried to purge Senator Walter F. George out of the upper congressional chamber, when he was running for re-election in 1938, he's entirely satisfactory to the administration in his new chairmanship of the senatorial foreign affairs committee, because he agrees heartily with the White House policy in connection with Pan-American solidarity and its handling of overseas conditions of today.

And the Georgian's a distinct acquisition to Secretary of State Hull, for he's a decided believer in Hull's reciprocal trade treaty program. The late Senator Key Pittman whom George succeeds in the foreign committee's chairmanship, wasn't. Pittman's state of Nevada has interests which object to the lowering of our tariff bars as involved in the Hull plan. It's an objection with which the late senator sympathized. He contended that at least such treaties ought to be subject to congressional approval, a requirement that the lawmakers had waived insofar as that particular class of international agreement goes. Sentor George, however an older fashioned Democrat than Pittman, was, has free trade tendencies, like Secretary Hull.

It was because George opposed the president's domestic New Deal reorganization that the latter attempted unsuccessfully to purge him. Now though, due to wars abroad, the domestic situation's largely eclipsed. And on the subject of foreign relations the senator's all right from the administration's standpoint.

Glad This Purge Failed

Some say that F. D. R.'s rather glad, as of present writing, that his 1938 purge dosage in that case failed to take.

Congress' two foreign affairs committees (Sol Bloom of New York is chairman of the representatives' outfit) always have been important. At the current juncture, with what's going on in the rest of the world they're of capital consequence.

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi was in line to succeed Senator Pittman by right of seniority, if he'd cared for the post, but Harrison already is chairman of the senatorial finance committee and the senate's rules are against the holding of two chairmanships by a single senator. Pat, who's a shark on the subject of financial legislation preferred not to switch, and George was next in line.

Key Pittman's death eliminated from the senate its most ardent defender of our silver purchase law, which fixes a government price for the white metal considerably above what it otherwise would bring in the open market. Nevada's a silver producing state, so his interest in the matter was understandable.

However, it was a law which some non-silver states bitterly criticized. Demands for its repeal were especially urgent from Senator John G. Townsend of Delaware. He made them in numerous speeches and in reams of mimeographed releases broadcast to the press. It was an extraordinary vigorous campaign. Pittman and Townsend jawed about it ceaselessly in the senate.

Well, Pittman died and is gone. But Townsend was beaten for re-election.

A tie, what?

George and Bloom

Getting back to foreign affairs the administration will start off the 77th congress with two reliable pluggers for its overseas policies in the senate and house of representatives—Senator George in the former and Representative Sol Bloom in the latter.

George isn't an all-around New Dealer. So! is

On local issues the senator doubtless will remain an "anti" but they no longer signify importantly. He's an administrationist internationally—the essential item at present. The representative's a 100 per center.

The pair of them at the moment are the two most influential members of congress—while the war lasts and their respective committees stay so much in the limelight. A chairman can have dissenters in his committee's membership but he attracts the bulk of attention. He gets himself quoted and gives the impression that he's the whole committee.

THANKSGIVING (1940)

For home and church and garden gay,
For school and freedom's meeting hall
For childhood's happy right to play
Neath skies from which no terrors fall,
For days serene and nights of rest
Our gratitude we manifest.

For all our fields of golden grain
Which ripened in the summer sun
And freshened with the cooling rain.
For harvesting in safety done;
For fruit of every vine and tree
Dear Lord, we come with thanks to Thee.

For everything which marks our ways
From those which tyrants force and plan;
For liberty throughout our days,
For all the cherished rights of man;
For peace of earth and sky and sea
Our grateful hearts acknowledge Thee.

Expanded Aid The Need

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. WHEN the new Congress meets in January there will be launched a movement to expand our aid to Great Britain sufficiently powerful, it is hoped, to break down the barriers which now stand in the way of the wholehearted help for which the crisis calls.

THE movement now is gathering impetus. Within the next six weeks it will be fully organized. By the time Congress convenes it is expected to be irresistible. There are two primary objectives. The first is repeal of the neutrality law, which every day's experience makes look sicker. So long as it is on the books it is as the Louisville Courier Journal points out, "an admission that we do not mean business in opposing Hitler." It certainly is true that the continuance of a law which prevents us from giving to the British all the aid "short of war" to which course both this Administration and its "loyal opposition" is committed and in which, as the polls show, more than ninety per cent of the American people concur—to continue such a law makes us seem singularly stupid and ineffectual.

THE same thing can be said of the Johnson Act, repeal of which is the second objective. To again quote the Courier Journal, "This is a law which was passed on the lying assumption that we got into the last war to recover our debts and which is preserved in the outrageous hope that only love of cash could move us to strong action today." With these two laws out of the way our aid to Britain can be increased immediately and greatly. With her cash exhausted we could begin to give and not sell England the materials which she needs to save herself and incidentally protect us. Few dispute that this is the most effective and obvious defensive step we could possibly take. If we can contrive to end this war with England unconditionally conquered and the British fleet still in control of the seas, we can save ourselves many billions of dollars which we now plan to expend on a gigantic defense machine.

IF we can do that we won't need a vast a machine. But with these laws out of the way we can do more than extend credit and give goods. We can provide ships—merchant ships to take to England the war materials which she cannot win and without warships to convoy merchant ships and transports across the full extent of our declared "neutrality zone" or all the way to British ports. The mere suggestion of this will, of course, raise a howl from the isolationists and the appeasers. It will be charged that this will drag us into war; that Germany will regard it as an act of war.

CHICAGO—Banker Emmett F. Connely urges defense cooperation between industry and finance.

WASHINGTON—Draft Director Clarence A. Dykstra promises jobs for trainees.

NEW YORK—Federal Narcotics Supervisor Maj. Garland Williams calls for new vigilance against dope abuses.

Anniversary Is Celebrated By Kiwanis Club

Twenty-first Anniversary Of Organization Observed At Field Club

Merry-making, generated by comical take-offs from popular programs of the air waves, took the place of speeches when the Kiwanis club, with the wives of the members as guests, celebrated its 21st anniversary at the New Castle Field club last night.

The mock broadcast, arranged by the man who has been a leader in Kiwanis here during most of its 21 years, Secretary L. C. Mantz—followed the delicious turkey dinner which 75 persons enjoyed.

Several former members of the club, including Budd F. Langdon, first treasurer of the group, and Mrs. Langdon, were honored guests last night. The Langdons reside in Mercer.

Mantz arranged and presided over the "Dr. Quiz," "Pot of Gold," and other broadcast skits, drawing its participants from the audience. Several club officers assisted him.

Past President Ralph H. Ramsey spoke briefly on the anniversary subject.

Lyle C. Hughes is the present president.

The Great Game Of Politics

ACTUALLY, of course, it would not put us in the war any more than we are in now, nor would it give Hitler any more cause to think we were. If the violent and unrestrained denunciation which was poured out on him from both sides in the recent campaign; if the sending of the destroyers, the taking over of air bases in British possessions in the Western Hemisphere, the planned sending of the flying fortresses and many other words and deeds—if these things have not convinced Hitler that we are actively on the side of England and opposing him, then nothing we could do would convince him. Of course, every nation in the world knows where we are and where we have been all the time.

DEEP in as this country is, it does not make sense to refrain now from taking the obvious steps to expand our aid by repealing these two laws. Failure to do so is inexplicable from the German and English points of view as well as our own—particularly as they could be repealed and still our position be described by that ambiguous phrase with which we futilely seek to camouflage what we are doing—"short of war". With the campaign over, it should now be possible to take a more realistic view of our position. That the repeal of both the Neutrality and the Johnson Acts will have strong Administration backing is felt certain by those engineering the movement. Mr. Roosevelt, it is said, not only would not oppose but would support. There is little doubt that support would come from Mr. Willkie, who is clearheaded as well as courageous on this business of helping Britain. Of course there will be opposition. There is in both parties an element which will violently resist.

BUT it is numerically small in Congress, and has no effective popular support in this country. Its leaders are highly articulate, but also highly impotent. Unless something happens to alter Mr. Roosevelt's frame of mind, there seems no real obstacle to the speedy repeal of these two hampering acts in January. This would mean that aid, vastly more important than any we have yet given, will get to England before spring. That's the idea. That will be the effort. It is an effort, too, which not only will not impede or slow down our own defense program but should accelerate it.

THE truth is that to adhere to the so-called Neutrality Act, which we do not now observe, and to cling to another law which hampers our own efforts, is absurd. These things do not fool anybody—they simply make us interfere with ourselves. We can keep out of the war in the sense that we need not declare war and we need send no men abroad. But when there is almost unanimous agreement that our own national interests are deeply involved with the survival of England, there seems no excuse not to give full aid in every way "short of war". That we cannot do so long as these two laws remain on the books.

No wonder free men made the mistake of trying appeasement. It has always kept peace in their own homes.

Million Pounds Of Turkey For Men In U. S. Service

By WILLIAM ZIMMERMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Maybe the sea air is not as stimulating to the appetite as an overland march, but army men were eating just a quarter of a pound more of turkey apiece today than their brothers in the navy and marines corps.

This was disclosed as Uncle Sam laid out more than 1,000,000 pounds of the traditional Thanksgiving day fowl in dinners with all the trimmings for the 713,000 men in his armed services.

And if there are any die-hard Republicans in the ranks it's just too bad. They're eating their turkey today, on President Roosevelt's Thanksgiving day, and liking it—for the army and navy are observing this date even in posts located in states which will celebrate next week instead.

According to army regulations, special holiday rations are allowed on Thanksgiving and Christmas under which each man may have 24 ounces—a pound and a half—of turkey. And that much was ordered for the 500,000 draftees, regulars and guardsmen now in service.

The navy and marine corps, on the other hand, are limited by a 1932 act of congress to not more than 20 ounces of fowl per man in any one day—so that's all they're getting.

Otherwise the meals are about the same—and officers said so far there have been no complaints from a navy man stuffed with a pound and a quarter of turkey plus all the side dishes.

The day is a holiday for new recruits and veterans alike. On shipboard and in army posts, chaplains held morning services—but attendance was not compulsory and some soldiers and sailors elected to take advantage of the unusual opportunity to sleep through the hated reveille.

Men were allowed to leave the posts if they wished, but according to officers virtually all chose to stick around and partake of the noonday banquet.

A typical army menu, just about the same as the navy, was:

Celery and olives, oyster soup, roast turkey with chestnut dressing and baked Virginia ham, cranberry sauce, candied sweet potatoes, stuffed tomatoes, combination salad, mince pie, pumpkin pie, plum pudding, coffee, cigars and cigarettes—all with the compliments of Uncle Sam.

A bottle of soothing eye lotion is an aid to beauty and comfort. Use in the morning if your eyes feel gritty and hot. Use again at night before going to bed. Learn to rest your eyes frequently by leaning back in your seat and closing them—while some one else drives, of course. Wear really good sunglasses. These have the double advantage of cutting down road glare and keeping the drying wind out of your eyes.

NEW MEXICO MICE HAVE WANDERLUST SAYS SCIENTIST

(International News Service)

ALAMOGORDO, N. M. — New Mexico's mice get around, according to scientific observation.

Dr. Frank Blaire of the University of Michigan, who scrutinized every whim and fancy of the mice for three months, said New Mexico mice are possessed of a wanderlust which takes them over an area of six or seven acres during a lifetime, while his midwestern cousin lives and dies within a half-acre plot.

Dr. Blair, aided by Mrs. Blair, caught and identified more than 500 mice in a 35-acre area and compiled exhaustive records on their habits. One mouse was captured 75 times.

Dr. Blair returned to Michigan, where he will conduct experiments with mice in the north woods.

WHISTLING TWINS HELP SCIENTISTS STUDY HEREDITY

WACO, Tex.—If you are capable of the trick to roll your tongue into a tube it doesn't mean much of anything—except you possibly can whistle thorugh it—according to recent findings by scientists.

The theory that the ability to roll one's tongue is hereditary was definitely refuted by tests on twins during the recent Baylor university second annual Twin Convention. Dr. D. C. Rife, professor of entomology at Ohio State university, announced.

Dr. Rife, who gave the biological tests, said it was common to both members of only ten of the 50 sets of identical twins tested.

In the other 40 sets one could and one couldn't.

What Early Pilgrims Ate At Thanksgiving

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 21.—Perhaps a Thanksgiving dinner including such items as "Vaccinium Oxycoccus" and "Cucurbita Pepo" doesn't sound very interesting, but Dr. B. E. Quick, Westminster college biology department head, lists these two items as "necessary" to make up the ideal Thanksgiving dinner. The first-mentioned is the scientific name for "cranberries", and the latter the scientist's term for the common, ordinary field-pumpkin from which pies are made.

Dr. Quick, in outlining the Thanksgiving dinner as it would have been eaten by the early Pilgrims includes the following items:

Cranberries: "small, round red berries, found chiefly in bogs".

Corn-bread: "called Mays by the Indians".

Pumpkin: "the common field, pie, and cow-pumpkin of North America".

Succotash: made from corn and beans. Could have been cooked from dried seeds, or possibly from fresh vegetables.

Dried blueberries, service-berries, and wild grapes, possibly eaten with dried or "jerked" deer-flesh, known as "pemmican".

Acorns, such as from the white oak or the burr oak, used as food by the Indians, and possibly eaten by the Pilgrims. Also hazel nuts, butternuts, black walnuts and hickory nuts.

Maple sugar and syrup, originally used by Indians as a way of satisfying their taste for sweets."

John Howard Payne, the author of "Home, Sweet Home" was a successful actor for 30 years. He also wrote several plays and it was in one of these "Clari" that the song "Home, Sweet Home" was introduced. "Clari" was produced as an opera in London.

Carrie Jacobs Bond, composer of "The End of a Perfect Day," etc., once gave a concert before the governor of Illinois wearing a dress she made out of two lace curtains, being too poor at the time to buy a dress for the occasion.

Tuberculosis Tests Will Be Provided

Tuberculosis Society Offers Examination For High School Students

Students in New Castle's Senior High school are today being offered an opportunity by the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society, in co-operation with the school board and the medical association.

All pupils, in the school will be given the opportunity to ascertain whether or not they are affected by tuberculosis.

It is the belief of the tuberculosis society that 75 per cent of the students are entirely free from any trace of the disease, but it is probable that in about 25 per cent of the students, and X-ray will be necessary to determine whether the person is free of tuberculosis, it is stated.

Both the preliminary examination, and the X-ray, if necessary, are being offered free of charge to the school pupils. The preliminary examination consists of a mere skin test which can be completed in about one minute's time.

All of the tests will be given by a physician, authorized by the school board, or by one of the city's legally licensed physicians, it is announced.

The Tuberculosis society will defray the cost of all materials and pay for the X-ray examinations from its own funds. In no case will the student or parents be required to pay for the examination, it is stated.

This morning, every student in the high school was given a letter to be taken home. The letter explains the offer of the Tuberculosis society in full and contains a "permission slip" at the bottom.

CIVIL EQUALITY IS GRANTED MARRIED WOMEN IN CUBA

(International News Service)

HAVANA—Civil equality for married women has been written into the new constitution of Cuba which is being framed by the Constituent Assembly delegates. In the future wives will be able to administer and use the income from their property, engage in industry or commerce, practice an art or profession without the permission of their husbands—a right they have never had under the old Spanish civil code still in effect.

Women were not permitted to have bank accounts without a husband's permission and, once given, the dominant male could draw on the account at will. If the law were invoked, women were unable to travel or leave home without the permission of their legal mates.

The first step in the emancipation of Cuban women was taken by Dr. Ramon Grau in 1933 when, as provisional president he approved a decree giving women the vote and enabling them to hold political office. Since then, several women have been elected to the lower house of congress.

Report Over 3600 Volunteers For Service From State

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—More than 3600 Pennsylvania men have volunteered for one year's training under the selective service program, Gov. Arthur H. James announced today.

Pennsylvania to date leads the nation in the number of volunteers, he said. The state's ratio of nearly five to one (3600 volunteers to 770 men in first call is exceeded only by Georgia.

Luzerne and Lackawanna counties and the city of Pittsburgh led in the number of volunteers. In Pittsburgh, local board number three had 50 volunteers.

The governor pointed out, however, that there are 18 draft boards in the state that as yet have no volunteers, including:

Berks, 2; Clair, 1; Franklin, 3; Indiana, 3; Venango, 3; Westmoreland, 13; Bethlehem 3; Harrisburg, 3, and City of Erie, 5.

Clarence A. Dykstra, national selective director, advised that requests by registrants for a change of address on registration cards must be denied

Bulgaria And Rumania May Also Join Axis

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, Nov. 21—Diplomatic quarters today expressed the view that Bulgaria and Rumania, following the lead of Hungary, would join the axis alliance this week.

Inclusion of these two countries within the totalitarian orbit, it was pointed out, will force Yugoslavia to choose between the axis and her present "on-the-fence" foreign policy.

Hungary's move in joining the German-Italian-Japanese bloc at Vienna yesterday led to a flood of reports in Budapest today that German military action in southeast Europe is imminent.

Meanwhile, it was rumored that Bulgaria may shortly serve an ultimatum on Greece, demanding cession of Thracian and Macedonian territory to provide a corridor to the Aegean Sea.

Blast Wrecks London 'Y,' Meermans Told

"London Central," forerunner of the 10,380 Y. M. C. A.'s throughout the world, was destroyed in the bomb-thundered English capital recently, General Secretary Robert L. Meermans of the New Castle "Y" was notified today.

The word was sent to all Y. M. C. A.'s here.

Erected at a cost of $1,250,000 as a memorial to Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A., the huge association home occupied an entire block on Great Russell street in London.

Secretary Frank Carter, in his message to all American "Y" heads, said 10 staff men were killed and 40 injured in the blast. The building cannot be used for the rest of the war.

Final Chest Report Comes Out Tonight

Final figures of New Castle's 1940 Community Chest campaign will be reported at a meeting of the Chest board of directors in the Y. W. C. A. tonight at 7:30, Mrs. Winifred Cooney, executive secretary of the Chest, said today.

This morning downtown Chest headquarters was notified that Sharon's Community Fund topped its $70,000 goal last night. Short a few thousand dollars at their closing rally Monday, workers went out, it was learned, and subscribed almost $7,000 overnight.

D. 5, ran across North street near Neshannock avenue, November 19 and was struck, knocked down and injured by truck reportedly driven by Stanley Seszko, 1322 Pennsylvania avenue. A physician treated the victim for bruises on nose and head.

Parable of the sower

"Take heed therefore how ye hear."—Luke 8:18

By. NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson for November 24 is Luke 8, the Golden Text being Luke 8:18, "Take heed therefore how ye hear.")

The chapter of St. Luke which comprises today's lesson is one of the most charming pictures of the life of our Lord on earth. It mentions three women who believed in the Lord and ministered to Him. Mary Magdalene had been cured of evil spirits by Him; Joanna was the wife of Chuzas, steward or chamberlain of Herod Antipas, and Susanna, who is not mentioned anywhere else in the New Testament. All three were faithful followers who aided the Lord in His great work.

A great multitude was following Jesus, and He told them a parable of a sower who scattered grain. Some of the grains fell on to hard, barren ground, and almost at once birds flew down and ate them for food; others fell on the stony ground that gave no moisture, and when the seeds came up they quickly withered. Still others fell in ground that allowed them to sprout and grow, but thorns grew also, and choked the good grain. Others fell into good ground and grew up and made a good harvest. As He told the parable He cried, "He that hath ears to hear, let him hear."

The disciples wanted to know the meaning of this parable, and Jesus explained that the seed was the word of God which was heard by many people. Some hearts were hard and the word made no impression on them. It was as if birds flew down and plucked the words and ate them. Others' hearts were stony, and while the good words might be sown in them, they soon were forgotten because the minds of those who received were not interested and gave them no thought in which to grow.

Others heard and believed at first, but allowed other interests, like weeds, to choke out all thought of them. But there were many whose minds and hearts welcomed the fruitful thoughts and cherished them, and gathered a rich harvest of fine Christian living from them.

Storm On Galilee

The Sea of Galilee is a beautiful body of water 350 feet below sea level. It is usually calm, but sudden storms arise on it. After teaching the people, Jesus and His disciples embarked in a boat to go to the other side of the sea. Jesus, being wearied, went to sleep, and a great storm arose, which rocked the boat and frightened the fishermen so that they called Jesus, telling Him that they were about to perish. Jesus rebuked the waves and they stilled. Then He turned to His disciples, reproving them for their lack of faith.

On the other side of the sea they were met by a man sorely afflicted with demons. So tormented was he that he hid in tombs and wore no clothes. The evil spirits spoke through his mouth, asking Jesus not to command them to go into the sea, but into a herd of swine which was feeding near by. Jesus did as they asked, and the swine ran down a steep place into the sea and were drowned. The man flung himself at Jesus' feet, and later went about telling everyone of his release. But the people who saw the miracle were frightened, and asked Him to go away. So He went back to the ship and returned to the other side.

Miracle Of The Sick Woman

The people on the other side of the sea received Him gladly. A man named Jarius, a ruler of the synagogue, came to Him, saying that his young daughter was ill, and asking that Jesus make her well. People crowded about the Master, and as He made His way to Jarius' house, He felt power go out of Him, and asked who had touched Him. The disciples had seen nothing and told Him the multiude pressed so close about Him that no one special had done so. Then a woman who had been ill for 12 years came to Him and threw herself at His feet, saying that she had come behind Him and touched the hem of His garment and had been healed. He said to her: "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole; go i: peace."

Just then someone came from Jarius, saying that Jesus need not go to the house as the daughter had died. But Jesus said, "Fear not; believe only, and she shall be made whole."

And when He came to the house He took only Peter, James and John with Him, and the father and mother of the maiden. All in the house were weeping and wailing, but Jesus said, "Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth." They laughed Him to scorn, but He put them out, and taking the girl by the hand He said, "Maid, arise."

"And her spirit came again, and she rose straightway."

What lesson do we learn from this eighth chapter of St. Luke? First, to keep our hearts and minds like fertile ground, to receive and cherish the Word of God and yield a harvest of blessing. And second, to have faith and not to fear, though storms rage and ills assail us. We are saved by faith, and faith shall make us free.

ARTILLERY DUEL ACROSS STRAITS

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—A terrific artillery duel between British and German long-range guns firing across the straits of Dover opened at 9 a. m. today.

The firing ceased about an hour later. German shells fell at random on the English coast but no damage or casualties were reported.

A thick mist prevented observation of results on the German-occupied side of the channel.

The first electric telephone was not invented by Alexander Graham Bell, but by Philip Reis in Germany in 1861. It is to Reis we owe the word telephone.

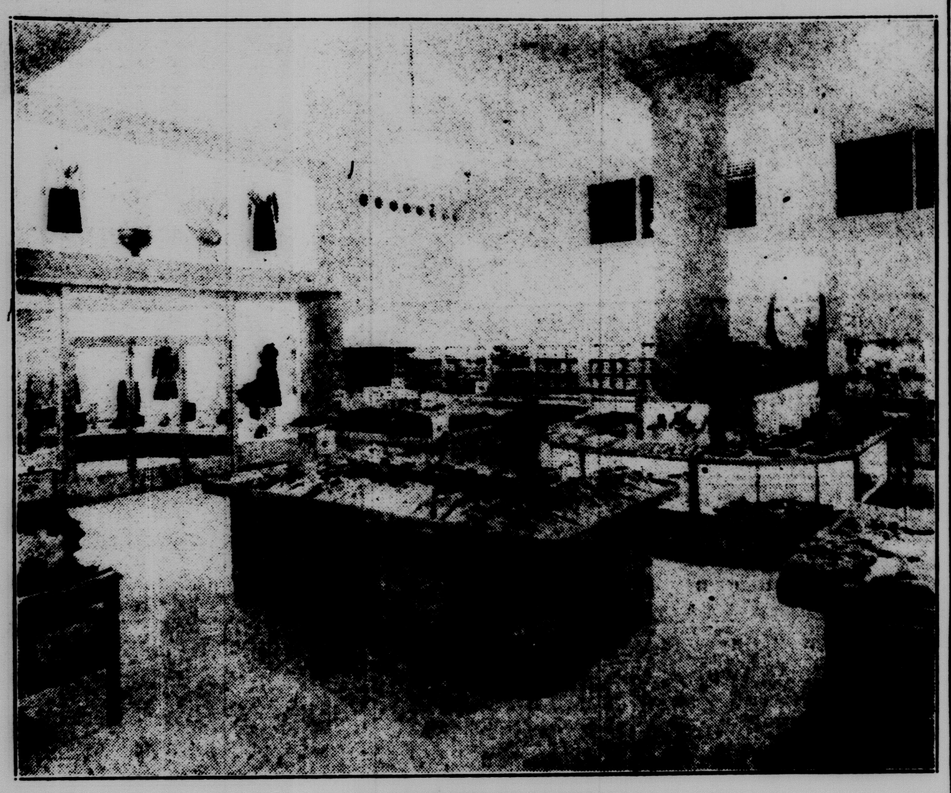
Streamlined Store Makes Public Debut On Friday Evening

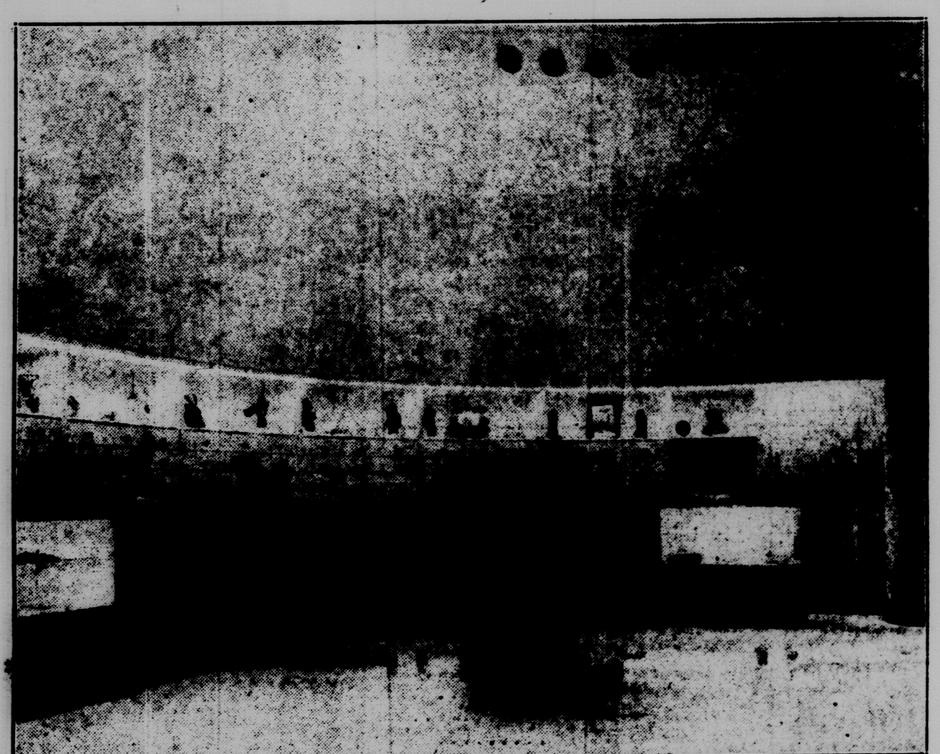


INSIDE, LOOKING TO ENTRANCE—

Once inside the attractive main floor, one gets this view by looking back toward the stately East Washington street entrance. Here is seen the men's furnishings department, off to the left as you walk in through the main Washington street doorway.

BEAUTY KEYNOTE THROUGHOUT—

This handsome scene is another of the modern new interior—this shows the hosiery department. Convenience to shoppers was foremost in the thoughts of the store planners, who have provided for the city one of the most up-to-date establishments in this end of the state.



GETS SHOPPERS' EYE—

The glove department, pictured above, is off to the right of the main Washington street doors, just where it was before hammers began to pound and saws to grind in the pioneer company's $60,000 renovation. But shoppers will find the glove department far more attractive, far more appealing than ever to shop in.

'The New Castle Store' Made Bow 37 Years Ago

On the glorious eve of the great Thanksgiving - Christmas holidays, The New Castle Store is throwing wide its doors Friday night to let the general public see for itself what a handsome new store interior and exterior its $60,000 renovation program has brought about.

"Open house" has been declared by the management for tomorrow evening between 7:30 and 9—and everyone is welcome!

The public can take its own time as it strolls through the attractive main floor aisles, watches living models showing fashion's latest on the second floor and visits Toyland—Santa will be there—on the third.

Designers and contractors together have given a magic touch to the whole store interior, and a finer mercantile home in all this section could hardly be found. The new, well-lighted show windows of the store are trimmed and ready for the public visit.

Now in its 37th year of service here, The New Castle Store—formerly the New Castle Dry Goods Co.—is one of the city's largest and oldest. It has a personnel of 125 and in peak employment periods that figure tops 300.

New Castle contractors handled the bulk of the big renovation job, under the general contractor, the Grand Rapids Store Equipment Co., specialists in the store designing field.

With the pulse of industry quickening in the nation, New Castle finds itself boasting of this expanded store which serves shoppers residing over a wide radius.

Co-Managers J. W. Staudinger and Harry Roemer pronounced things in readiness for tomorrow's inspection, and added:

"We want the public to come. We think most everybody will be delightfully surprised."

"Our deepest concern, though, is to continue our regular merchandising policies of giving the customers the best in style, quality and value and to establish it now, more than ever, as the great Christmas store.

"We doubt if any other store in any community ever received such whole-hearted endorsement from its public as we have during the past four months of construction. It's appreciated, too."

Employment And Wages Are Higher Shown By Report

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 21—Factory employment in Pennsylvania increased approximately three per cent and wage disbursements five per cent in October over the preceding month, the Federal Reserve Bank reported today. The advances considerably exceeded seasonal expectations and reflected unusual improvement in the durable and nondurable goods industries, the bank added.

Employment in Delaware factories jumped one per cent and payrolls three per cent last month over September, the report revealed.

The Republican convention of 1880 created a battle of ballots out of which came one of the few "dark horses" ever to reach the White House—James A. Garfield. James G. Blaine and General Grant were the two real contenders, but supporters were so evenly divided that neither could win.

It does seem that every naturalization class is larger than the last one. The one being held this week is one of the largest, probably the largest ever held and Examiner Carl W. Starliper is handling about 60 cases per day. The court will last until Friday afternoon it is thought.

There seems to be a preponderance of women in the class this week. Many of them had never been naturalized when their husbands were, apparently believing that his naturalization included them.

Past the bench of the court they parade every day, men and women from Czecho-Slovakia, from Hungary, from Rumania, from Italy, from Russia, all of them eager to get the protective cloak of citizenship of Uncle Sam.

Some of them are so eager to get the questions answered that their zeal results in nervousness and they are unable to answer. Some are not familiar enough with the English language and they are advised to attend school and come back next time.

The joy and relief of those who pass is mirrored in their faces as they walk over to the desk to sign the certificate and take the oath of allegiance.

The court house will celebrate Thanksgiving on Thursday. November 28 and will pay no attention to the nationally proclaimed Thanksgiving of November 21. On November 28 the offices will all be closed for the day.

Perhaps somebody was kidding Deputy Sheriff Thomas C. O'Brien because it is bear season. Tommy brought in a raccoon on Tuesday night and on Wednesday it was hung up and labelled as a bear. At that it was a large raccoon.

Sheriff M. M. Ingham spent a day in Jefferson county looking for a shot at one of the black beauties but didn't see any. The sheriff says there were six hunters for every bear in the woods and he finally gave up and came home. After watching him do some plain and fancy shooting at the reunion of the Alley Rats last summer we'd like to bet that a bear that came within range would be finished if Cy got a bead on him.

County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer and County Controller Frank W. Fill will be in State College Thursday and Friday attending the sessions of the Municipal and Finance officers of the state. Fink will also attend.

The institute is held each year for the purpose of bringing more efficiency to local government and also to standardize accounting.

Tax Structure Of State Will Be Portrayed

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21—The first complete picture of the tax structure of the state to be made in more than a decade today was being whipped into shape for presentation to the 1941 legislature which will convene January 7.

In a report to the joint state government commission, state Senator G. Mason Owlett, R., Tioga, chairman of the legislative committee on finance, said that sufficient data and statistics had been gathered in the past 15 months to make it possible to present "a complete overall picture of Pennsylvania's tax system, it's revenues and its expenditures."

The final report to be made to the legislature will include data, information and statistics pertaining to (1) the present status of any pending litigation attacking the validity of tax legislature (2) present status of the finances of the commonwealth (3) approximate date of the exhaustion of the public assistance appropriations and (4) taxes collected by Pennsylvania compared with 11 other selected states.

Owlett pointed out that no study has been made on the commonwealth's tax structure since the Edmonds tax commission in 1925-27.

The finance committee's report will also contain data on the new federal defense taxes and their effect on state taxes and a comparison of the corporate tax burden in Pennsylvania and other states.

The Human Side Of The News

The transatlantic telephone celebrates its twenty-fifth birthday. Perhaps those who use it don't realise the labor and genius of engineering which laid that cable for nearly three thousand miles up and down the mountains and valleys of the sea floor. Or realise, indeed, the ingenuity employed in repairing breaks, catching up loose ends wrenched apart by earthquakes or even sea-monsters.

The greatest cable expert in the world is a Russian gentleman named Vladimir de Smitt. He knows more about the bottom of the sea than any living man. He knows every mountain and valley in that huge and hidden expanse. When an earthquake snaps a cable, Captain de Smitt can tell you, within an hour, exactly where the break occurred, and off goes a repair ship, with all sorts of curious apparatus, to fish up the severed ends and weld them together.

Long ago Ferdinand Magellan tried to find bottom in the Pacific, but simply didn't have enough line. Nowadays, the Western Union and men like Vladimir de Smitt use instruments of precision. There is, for example, the Sonic Depth-Finder which measures distance from surface to bottom by the length of time it takes sound to travel to the ocean floor and back.

The scientists who spend their lives studying the beauty of the sea floor and its awesome mysteries lead a most fascinating existence. There is Dr. Bill Beebe who puts on a glass hat and strolls along the bottom of the sea, passing the time of day with octopi and sharks. Marvelous things he beholds, astonishingly beautiful living things that may be plant or animal; misshapen creatures of perpetual night; huge monsters of unbelievable size and strength. Gleams of eerie light seem to come from nowhere. What would one behold if ever the good Lord lifted up the sea?

A great many people are asking the question: "What is going to happen when the war ends? What will life be like? Well, a friend of mine, Dr. Carleton Simon, a famous psychiatrist and criminologist, offers his answer in a letter just received from him, and this is what he says:

"The dictators, in their demonstration of might over right, in their ruthless acts of aggression, with all of their relentless cruelty and widespread destruction, have and still are inflicting mental injury and spiritual traumatism upon millions of human beings throughout the world.

"I predict," said Dr. Simon, "that the acts of these dictators will result in a vast increase of neurosis and insanity. This is already manifest in Europe and also in America, by an increase of hysteria and emotional imbalance of otherwise calm, reasoning individuals. You cannot destroy the finer instincts that make life worth living without reaping a harvest of evil. This mental and social upheaval combined with wide-world economical crisis is certain to result in a great increase of crime throughout the world."

Don't worry about the war over there. Best not talk about it. That is Dr. Simon's advice. And good, too.

New Birmingham Raids Reported

Germans Announce New And Intensive Bombing Of England's Industrial Centers

(International News Service)

BERLIN, Nov. 21.—Heavy new attacks on Birmingham by strong German bombers during the night were announced officially in Berlin today.

The raids on the important industrial city in the English midlands followed up the stunning Nazi raids of Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, which German authorities said struck a "paralyzing" blow at the heart of Britain's munitions and armament manufacturing facilities.

Today's announcement said smoke from numerous fires at Birmingham and unfavorable weather prevented detailed observation of the damage wrought at Birmingham.

It stated, however, that London, Southampton, Portsmouth and Bristol also were arided during the night by German planes, while Italian bombers pounded Ipswich and Harwich.

Other reports received in Berlin said hundreds of German planes during the night carried out "grand-scale" attacks on ports and industrial centers in middle and southern England, including the great west coast port of Liverpool.

DIET OF EXPECTANT MOTHERS

A young woman whose family I have attended through two generations, is expecting a baby soon. Consequently, all her friends have been calling to see her and, of course, each one has had specific advice to offer. "Do this," "do that," "eat this," "eat that," is what she has been hearing from all comers. She couldn't possibly follow all the advice, but as this is her first child and she has never been through the mill before, she has been trying to. Naturally she has been influenced most by the advice of women who have had children. They told her all the things they ate and how good those things were for them.

Well, the result of all this advice is that the poor girl became ill. She tried to eat too many things. I have seen it happen many times. The woman about to have her first baby is so anxious to do whatever will help her and the child that she overdoes things and endangers her own and the child's health.

One dangerous piece of old wives' advice that is taken literally too often by expectant mothers is, "Of course, you must eat more, you know. You must eat every morsel you can swallow so you will have lots of milk for the baby."

If the expectant mother does just that, what happens? This: Her system is particularly subject to upset at this time, and she gets a case of indigestion so bad that she has to stop eating entirely for a few days. The indigestion, of course, places a serious strain on her heart. If she overeats after the baby has been born, this upset stomach is even more serious. While she is ill and not eating, her supply of milk suddenly drops off, and the baby must be fed artificially.

The food requirements of the expectant mother and nursing mother depends a great deal upon the individual. What was good for one woman might be bad for another. As you now, certain foods disagree with some persons at any time. The chances that certain foods will upset an expectant mother are great. On the other hand, it may be she will have an abnormal craving for certain foods during pregnancy. Both these factors, as well as many others, will be taken into account by her doctor in prescribing her diet. Once she has accepted her doctor's advice on diet, she should not depart from it in any particular without his consent. She can listen politely to the advice of her friends about her diet, and then forget it.

Suppose, for example, she heeds some advice often given by well-meaning but incorrectly informed friends—that a baby gets colic if the mother eats green vegetables. She stops eating green vegetables. Then, in a few days, the chances are she will be upset because her milk supply is dropping off and there isn't enough for her baby. It is possible in some cases that green vegetables in the mother's diet may affect the baby adversely, but no such drastic change in diet as eschewing green vegetables should ever be made by a mother unless it is with her physician's advice.

It's a curious thing, how many women there are who always regard their sicknesses or deliveries or other medical experiences as exceptional until they start handing out advice! Then they regard their own experience as a guide for everybody.

No Action As Yet On Extension Of State Turnpike

Legislature Made No Fund Provision

Some Negotiations Are Under Way In Effort To Get Funds For Work

WOULD EXTEND ROAD ON TO PHILADELPHIA

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—Approximately half a year has passed since the 1940 special session of the Legislature authorized the extension of the $70,000,000 Pennsylvania turnpike to Philadelphia, but nothing tangible has yet been done.

Today there are reports that action may be expected soon and that construction of the 100-mile link between Harrisburg and Philadelphia may actually get under way next year.

Turnpike commission member and former Chairman Walter A. Jones, who was instrumental in obtaining financial aid for construction of the 160-mile superhighway between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg, is sufficiently recovered now from a lengthy illness to resume his conferences with federal officials.

Need $60,000,000

It was understood that Jones was to confer with Jesse Jones, Reconstruction Finance Corporation administrator and U. S. secretary of commerce, in an effort to obtain financial backing from the government for the $60,000,000 extension.

The importance of the Jones vs. Jones conversations lies in the fact that the R. F. C. purchased $40,800,000 of the bonds issued by the Pennsylvania turnpike commission for the construction of the present turnpike, which went into operation last October 1 as a toll road.

The public works administration (now defunct) made an outright grant of $29,250,000 towards the highway's construction.

Extension of the Pittsburgh to Harrisburg express road to Philadelphia would give Pennsylvania an unparalleled super-speed highway across the entire length of the state.

Negotiations On

1. Lamont Hughes, state secretary of highways and a member of the turnpike commission, said that although nothing had yet been done toward construction the new highway, negotiations were underway to obtain sufficient funds from the federal road program to permit a survey to be made.

It was understood that a survey would take approximately six months to complete. The survey of the Pennsylvania turnpike was made by the highways department.

Hughes explained that although the Legislature last May authorized the construction of the turnpike extension it made no provision as to how it was to be financed.

"I have no authorization to use our funds for this purpose," stated Hughes.

The turnpike commission in 1937 borrowed approximately three-quarters of a million dollars from the highways department to permit initial work to be started on the turnpike and all of this has not yet been repaid, said Hughes, although the major portion has.

Hughes added that it was possible some private banking firms may be interested in financing the turnpike extension, but the main chance of success in building the new road appeared to lie in the federal government.

U. S. military authorities have repeatedly expressed their desire for an express highway connecting the steel mills of Pittsburgh with the naval yards of Philadelphia. Consequently, bright hopes are held that the federal government may decide to aid in the construction of the new highway as a defense measure.

Draftees Not Likely To Be Stationed With Their Friends

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21—Persons inducted into the army under the selective service law need not expect to be assigned to training camps with their friends, it was asserted today by state draft headquarters.

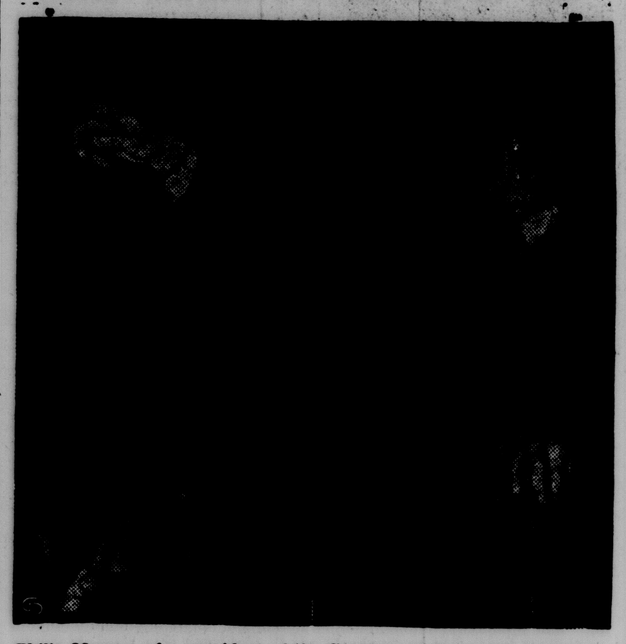
"While it will not be the policy to shunt men from one part of the country to another," draft officials explained, "it does not follow, on the other hand, that any group of men who have been sent to an induction center at the same time from the same local board necessarily will find themselves, together at the end of a few weeks."

Many more important factors than keeping friends together enter into making the assignments, it was emphasized.

After the men have passed their army physical examinations and have taken their oaths of office at the induction centers, they will be sent to reception camps. The question of where they will be trained will be determined there on the basis of each individual's experience, capabilities, needs of various divisions and available facilities in the respective camps.

The real choice, for all people everywhere, is between root-hog-or-die freedom and being managed by government overseers.

WHEN MURRAY TOLD C. I. O. "NO"



Philip Murray, vice president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, is pictured above as he addressed the C. I. O. convention in Atlantic City, N. J., announcing he would decline the presidency of the C. I. O. if it were offered him. President John L. Lewis earlier had repeated his promise to resign.

Local Woman's Poem For British Being Read In England

New Castle Woman Receives Word "Prayer" Printed In The News Sent To Britain

"God Save the British," a prayer for England, written in the form of a poem by a local woman, Mamie L. Smiley of Hartman street, and published in the New Castle News' "From Me to You" column on Friday, September 13, of this year, has been read and heard by Britons in war torn England several times.

The poem was clipped from the column by "Meseeall" by Mrs. Harry Barkby of 217 Hillcrest avenue and sent to her 73-year-old mother, Mrs. Emma Hewitt at Stoke-on-Trent, England.

In a letter just received by Mrs. Barkby from her mother, Mrs. Hewitt states that she has been called upon several times to read the prayer in church services and that upon receipt, the prayer was given to her church pastor and first read in services by him.

Located in the midlands about 150 miles from London, Stoke-on-Trent has been the destination of many London refugees. At the time Mrs. Hewitt's letter was written about three weeks ago, she was hostess to two aged London refugees who had lost all their possessions in the London raids. Mrs. Hewitt has her own air-raid shelter, referred to as a "pantry," and states that it is necessary to spend quite a bit of time in the shelter.

In her letter, Mrs. Hewitt extended thanks to Americans for all they have done to aid the British.

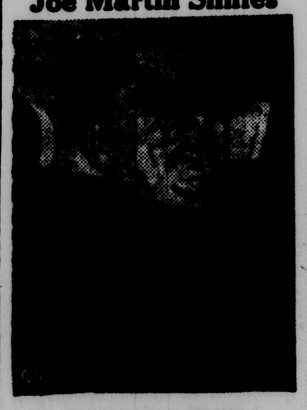
Joe Martin Smiles



Congressman Martin

Smiling broadly, Representative Joseph Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts shows his satisfaction at the defeat of the Democratic house leadership which sought an adjournment of congress. Martin is Republican minority leader and led the unsuccessful campaign for the election of Wendell Willkie to the presidency.

Relative Of Local Family Chaplain In "Black Watch"

To keep herself occupied, seeking to put war worries in the background, Mrs. Donald Mackay, granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Mossman of Park avenue, this city, has turned to avenues of volunteer work as the best remedy it is learned. Her husband left for England two months ago to serve with Britain's famed Black Watch regiment.

At this time, Mary Jane, as she is known to a host of friends, left Montreal to stay with her parents, the George Beatties, in Cleveland, Ohio, where she is devoting much of her time at the Y. W. C. A. center, in volunteer duty. She leads singing groups, teaches high school girls in their specified training and helps to plan programs.

Mary Jane states "I thought I'd be worried, but I find I'm not at all. Hard work eases anxiety, and this is a wonderful experience for Donald, working with so many different types of men."

(Mr. Mackay is chaplain for the Royal Highlanders of the Black Watch, a Scotch regiment that wears kilts, plays bagpipes and is steeped in tradition. They also have other uniforms, with trousers, for fighting purposes.)

It was six weeks before any word was received by Mrs. Mackay from her husband, and then she had an avalanche of messages, totaling six letters in one day. They dated "Somewhere in England" and Mr. Mackay relates his surprise at the "small amount of damage in London—the marvelous attitude of the people, who go along in their stride of high spirit, patching up the damage done, and continue on their jobs."

Mary Jane conveys the word that the Canadian slant on the war finds the people not jittery as we are here; they are calm, sure everything is going to work out alright. She also feels that England doesn't need our man power, just planes and munitions.

Her attention being given to war work, Mrs. Mackay is naturally knitting for the British War Relief, but admits most of her knitting goes personally to her husband, to whom she has been married two years the 27th of this month.

FIRST DOG SHOT

Bobby, an Alsatian dog attached to a crack French Zouave regiment as a messenger, was the first dog to be shot by the Germans on the Western front, according to a report received in Paris. His body was recovered and was buried with the following epitaph: "Here lies Bobby, a messenger dog, who fell on the field of honor while rendering service."

Red Cross Ready For Any Disaster

Local Chapter Prepared For Any Emergency Which May Cause Suffering

MANY DISASTERS OCCUR IN NATION

America's No. 1 Emergency Relief Agency saw action at the scene of 102 disasters in 34 states during the past year.

The Lawrence County Chapter's Disaster Committee, under the leadership of Attorney Joseph McFate, has not been called upon the function but has displayed its readiness on the one or two occasions when it appeared as though the Disaster Preparedness committees would need to go into action. This group of men and women, under the leadership of Mr. McFate and the Chapter Chairman, Ralph F. Davis, stands ready to serve the community in any form of unusual happenings which may not be in the nature of a real disaster but may involve the welfare of a number of people at one time.

For 50 years, the American Red Cross Disaster 'Fighters" took aid to more than one hundred thousand people suffering from floods, tornadoes, fires, and other catastrophes. In the past twenty years the United States has had approximately one hundred disasters occur annually.

Red Cross workers of the National Disaster staff cooperate with the local chapters. This was clearly demonstrated in the Lawrence County Chapter in the recent powder plant explosion. The National Disaster staff contacted the Lawrence County Chapter's office offering aid if aid was needed. The National Disaster staff workers remain at the scene of any disaster to aid families in rebuilding homes and replacing essential household goods.

To have communities ready to meet their own problems, disaster preparedness programs have been held in various areas where floods, hurricanes and other catastrophes occur in great frequency, disaster relief institutes have been conducted in various chapters. The Lawrence County Chapter had as their guest, Mr. Maurice Reddy of the National Disaster Staff who conducted such an institute and outlines some of the local hasards which we must be aware of.

Your membership in the American Red Cross makes possible for this work to be carried on regardless of conditions.

Greek Fund To Help Stricken, Not Army

Contributions to the Greek War Relief Fund, Inc., go only to help in the humanitarian phases of the war, and not to purchase military supplies, Speer Marquis, chairman of the current drive explained today. A new total will be announced here shortly.

Should Greece unfortunately fall to the Axis powers, money in the United States fund would immediately be "frozen" so that it could not be of service to the enemy in any way.

Secret Bombsight Not Being Given With Big Planes

(International News Service)

HYDE PARK, N. Y. Nov. 21—From his Hyde Park home, President Roosevelt today emphasized the point that the United States was not making its highly guarded secret bombsight available to Great Britain along with the 46 giant bombers being dispatched to England's aid.

William D. Passett, White House secretary, announced in behalf of Mr. Roosevelt that the Norden bombsight is America's newest sight "and, of course, remains an American military secret."

The 46 bombers, Nassett explained, are equipped with the Sperry bombsight, "which in relation to the more efficient Nordennsight, is considered more or less obsolete."

General George C. Marshall army chief of staff, made the same distinction yesterday when he announced the latest aerial aid to Britain.

Rob Long Avenue Business Places

City detectives headed by R. A. Criswell today were searching for burglars who robbed Sheraff's market, 430 East Long avenue, of $13 and Dave's market, 422 East Long avenue, of $14 last night.

The chief of police, W. G. McMullen reported the detectives had recovered a pocketbook containing a sum of money lost in an East Washington street business house. The owner did not bring any prosecution when the man claimed he found the pocketbook.

Liquor Control Board To Remain Two-Man Body

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21.—The Pennsylvania liquor control board, which supervises the $90,000,000 state liquor monopoly, will remain a two-man body indefinitely, Gov Arthur H. James indicated today. The law provides for three members.

Governor James reiterated that he saw no need to make an appointment to the vacant $10,000 post which has not been filled since the resignation of J. Twing Brooks, Pittsburgh, only Democratic board member, on September 1, 1939.

The governor said that the two members now operating the board, W. Werrell Wagner, Philadelphia, a Pinchot appointee, and Chairman William S. Rial of Greensburg, a James appointee, apparently were able to work in harmony. Wagner is now recovering from a serious illness, said the governor and should be back on the job soon.

Announce Release Of 26 Of Biggest Army Bombers Of U. S. To Great Britain

By GRIFFING BANCROFT, Jr.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—The United States announces release of 26 of the most advanced type of army bombers to Great Britain with deliveries to start immediately.

The announcement was made by General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff.

The planes, Gen. Marshall said, are the product of the Consolidated Aircraft Company, of San Diego, Calif., and are virtually identical with the famed Boeing "Flying Fortresses."

At the same time, he announced that negotiations are also under way with Britain for later release of 20 of the Flying Fortress type bombers.

Can Fly 3,000 Miles

Both types of planes are capable of flying 3,000 miles with their four powerful engines.

Gen. Marshall also disclosed at his press conference that the United States army is maintaining observers in England who fly on British planes in actual battle, but under no circumstances fly over any "hostile territory."

The heavy bombers, one of which Gen. Marshall said the British "were supposed to have obtained last Saturday" will all be delivered by March 1. Six, he said, will be off the Consolidated Assembly lines by the first of the year.

These planes will be equipped so far as weapons are concerned, by the British while the Boeing planes which they will get later will be fully equipped in this country.

This equipment, Gen. Marshall said, will include the Sperry bomb sight, which already has been released to England. The general emphasized, however, that the Superior Norden bomb sight now being used by American Army and Navy planes is being held a military secret by this country.

Formal Statement

Gen. Marshall's formal statement regarding release of the bombing planes follows:

"We have completed negotiations with the British government giving them priority of delivery of 26 four-engine heavy bombers called B-24 from the Consolidated plant in San Diego.

"The United States accepted a delay in start of deliveries to it of this contract of approximately three months.

"In consideration of this priority, the British government has released to us sufficient engines to equip 41 of the Flying Fortress type of four-engine heavy bomber on which the Army had already accepted delivery without engines or would have received without engines before January 1. There are sufficient engines in sight for future deliveries of these planes to this government.

"As to the Flying Fortress or B-17 type we are now in the process of negotiating with British authorities on a basis for release to them of 20 fully equipped planes, except as to the Norden bomb sight.

"The primary purpose of this release from the viewpoint of the United States is to obtain an actual service test of this plane, no comparable plane having ever been used in actual operations. Such a test would enable us to make desired modifications in planes now under contract for future delivery."

Navy Denies Any U. S. Destroyers Halted Nazi Ships

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The navy department today issued a categorical denial that U. S. naval vessels stopped, or were anywhere near, two Mexican merchantmen which Mexico newspapers claim were halted eight miles off Tampico Monday.

The navy, in a formal statement, said:

"Reports that the U. S. destroyers had stopped the tanker Cerro Azul and the freighter Ceiba inbound to Tampico on Monday are false.

"No ships have been stopped or boarded.

"No destroyers have been within ten miles of the Mexican port as reported."

Simultaneously, undersecretary of state Welles cleared up another Tampico Bay incident. He said that Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, had checked the commanders of the four American destroyers which previously were reported to have turned back four German merchant vessels, and they reported that none of the vessels had entered Mexican territorial waters.

The destroyer commanders also stated that they had neither hailed nor halted the German ships. Stories to that effect were obviously concocted, the undersecretary said.

In order to get the boys back home as soon as possible the meeting will be short and will be over in 60 minutes.

For Joyful Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Real Relief. Big Saving. So Easy. No Cooking.

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective remedy for coughs due to colds. It's so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial membranes.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. It's no trouble at all, and takes but a moment. No cooking needed.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of very effective and quick-acting cough remedy, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be amazed by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving you delightful relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if not pleased in every way.

NERVOUSNESS? RESTLESS NIGHTS?

Is It Your Kidneys?

Active, normal-acting kidneys and bladder expel from the blood excess acids and poisons—that's their health-giving job.

If kidneys are sluggish or inactive, these harmful excess acids and poisons may stay in the blood and spreading through the system cause much misery and distress and bring on ill health in this regard.

For instance, lazy kidneys may be to blame if you are nervous, have to get up nights, have dizzy spells, backache, leg cramps or swollen ankles.

Better be safe than sorry — try a 35-cent box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules — a real kidney diuretic and stimulant that may do you a lot of good.

They have been helping people for scores of years to correct their aches and pains when caused by lazy, sluggish kidneys.

But be sure and ask for and get Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules — the genuine — pure and original. Don't be an easy mark and accept a cheap substitute — Look for the GOLD MEDAL on the box — the sign of purity — 35 cents.

New Castle High Eleven At Warren For Final Battle

"Red Hurricane" Seeks Tenth Win Of Season In Ohio Thanksgiving Day Battle

SQUAD OF FIFTY ON WARREN TRIP

New Castle High "Red Hurricane" football team, with a squad of over 50, went to Warren, O., today for the final game of the 1940 grid season. New Castle will be out to win its tenth victory of the year. The kickoff today was at 2:30 o'clock.

It was a Thanksgiving Day game for the Warren fans and there were quite a few hundred in the stands at game time. New Castle High's squad left New Castle this morning at 11 o'clock and went direct to the site of the game. The New Castle team that took the field today was in the best physical shape that it has ever been in. The boys have had several days of rest following the postponement from last Saturday.

Seven Play Final Game

Seven of the regulars who began the game will have donned the football regalia of New Castle High for the last time. They are Ciazza, Roberts, Bucci, Audino, Morgan and Tomalello. Pugh, a first-string end, will see a lot of action today and it will be his farewell. Freddy McKee, still nursing a broken leg, will not see action, and he will be through this year.

When the game began there was a fair sized following of New Castle fans in the stands. The New Castle High band did not make the trip. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh, as a reward to the third and fourth stringers, took them on the trip today.

Army-Navy Game Is Not Sellout

(International News Service)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 21.—Despite what you've heard, there are still army-navy football tickets to be gotten for the game at Philadelphia Nov. 30.

A small number of tickets are still available for public sale, it was announced today by Lieut. Col. Louis E. Hibbs, graduate manager of athletics.

Normally, the game is a sell-out well in advance. The increased burden of work on army men because of the defense speed-up, allowing little time for football games, was believed responsible for the current situation.

Pitt And State To Battle Saturday

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 21. — Pitt makes its final home stand of the season in the Pitt Stadium this Saturday against Penn State's undefeated Lions, and the Panthers face the possibility of going into the game minus the services of Edgar Jones, speedy left halfback, who has been the main offensive spark all year.

In the left halfback spot when the Blue and Gold team lines up against those Seven Mountains may possibly be Jackie Stetler, chunky little Sophomore from Glenshaw, and the Pitt strategy board hopes that the youngster keeps up the great play he showed against Nebraska last week.

Jones is expected to be released from the hospital early this week, but the final report on his availability will not come from the specialist in charge until later.

While the Lions, on the basis of their records this fall and because of their defeat of the Pitt team last fall, are going to be heavy favorites, the Panthers believe they can pull the upset of the year this weekend. The Pitt players are still grousing over the loss to Nebraska when victory was so near. Whether or not, however, they can keep this on edge feeling for two successive Saturdays remain to be seen.

Aside from Jones the Pitts are in good shape. Halfback Bobby Thurbon came up with a charley horse, but this has responded to treatment, and the little speedster is ready to go again.

Dick Fullerton has been watching the Lions this fall, and his reports back the newspaper record of Coach Bob Higgins' team. He has yet to see them really pressed, except by Syracuse.

For speed and power combined they have Chuck Peters, who Fullerton reports has to be hit hard to be downed; for elusiveness there is Pepper Petrella; for passing there is Bill Smaltz to Len Krouse combination that always seems to click when yards are needed.

Friesell Given 1941 Invitation To Referee Game

Cornell Requests That "Referee Who Erred" Be Assigned Cornell-Dartmouth 1941 Battle

(International News Service)

ITHACA, N. Y, Nov 21—Red Friesell, the referee who committed the fifth down faux pas in the Cornell-Dartmouth game, Wednesday was invited to referee the match between the Big Red team and the Dartmouth Indians again next year.

Coach Carl Snavely, of Cornell, the ultimate sufferer in the turn-about tale, wired Friesell that he has requested the central office to assign the official to the 1941 encounter between the two teams.

Snavely's wire said:

"Perhaps you would be pleased to know that Cornell wholeheartedly approves your acknowledgment of error and retains even fair regard for your competency and integrity as an official."

BIG BEAR BENDS FENDER ON TRUCK

(International News Service)

COUDERSPORT, Pa., Nov. 21.—William Casy, Olean, N. Y., business man, possessed a unique experience today but he wasn't happy about it.

Casey was jolted when a 350-pound bear crashed into the truck he was driving and damaged a fender. Apparently unhurt, bruin ambled off into the woods near here.

In 1941 Texas Christian University will play intersectional football games with Indiana at Bloomington and Fordham in New York.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Mickie Rubin, light-heavyweight, who fought as an amateur, then turned professional and at this moment has on file with the A. A. U. an application for a return to an amateur status, is said to now be under the tutelage of Paris (Kid) Cangey, who as a lightweight, toted a terrific punch and fought many good opponents. If Rubin arrives at a frame of mind where he will listen to Cangey he will be able to assimilate some of Cangey's knowledge which the "Poison Kid", as he once was known, is able to impart.

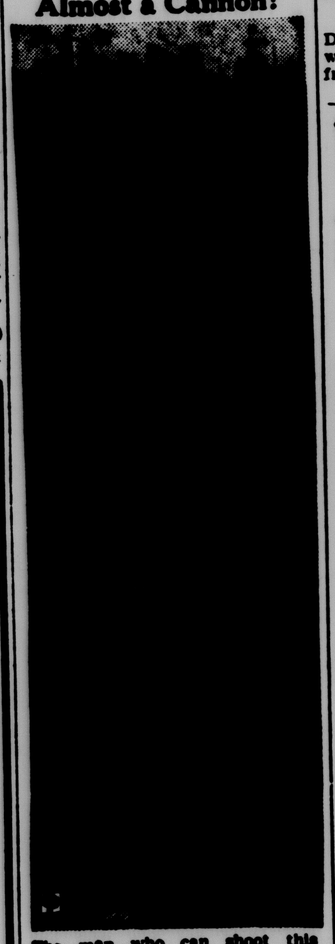
GIRLS HOLD SHOOT AT SENIOR HIGH

The girls' division of the New Castle High rifle team held a shoot last night at the school range with J. Tribby high for the evening with a 91 string.

The results—J. Tribby 91, P. Ferver 84, E. Johnson 72, S. McMullen 77, V. Donaldson 73, R. McEwen 71, M. Koivula 70, I. Galant 69, D. Lutz 63, E. Fobes 61, J. Miller 60, B. James 43, P. Pugh 42.

Phil Brubaker, the Nosediving Adonis, still wants to return to heavyweight fisticuffs, and is busily toughening up his muscles by cutting down trees. But, as coast sports writers doubtfully point out, there is no known remedy for hardening chins.

Almost a Cannon!



The man who can shoot this seven-foot "shotgun," being compared with a modern shotgun by Walter Steeley of Lititz, Pa., must be quite a man. Dubbed the "Lancaster County Bully," the 34-pound gun was built in the middle of the last century to be used in turkey shoots. The inside diameter of the barrel is one inch, and a pint of powder is required to fire its charge.

Cornell Score Wrong

Here is Red Friesell, referee in that disputed Cornell-Dartmouth football game at Hanover, N. H., who has admitted he made a mistake and did give Cornell five downs in that tense last 10 seconds of play with Dartmouth leading, 3 to 0. On the disputed fifth down, Cornell completed a pass which scored a touchdown, making the count, Cornell 7, Dartmouth 3. Cornell has awarded the game to Dartmouth and the score will be recorded Dartmouth 3, Cornell 0.

Charity Battle Plans Progress

Wabash Bears Hard At Work In Getting Ready To Battle Youngstown Rams

General Chairman Chris Clark of the Thanksgiving Day Charity football game at Taggart Stadium November 28, today announced that the prices for the game have been set. Mr. Clark announced also that Lauri Laurel of the First National bank had accepted treasureship of the game.

The proceeds of the game go to the American Red Cross and the Community Chest fund. The heads of both organizations are lending a hepling hand to the Charity Game committee—Miss Margaret Bodenstein of the Red Cross and Paul Dingledy of the Community Chest.

The prices for the game will be as follows—50 cents for all seats in the concrete stands, 35 cents for seats in the wooden bleachers on the western side of the field (fans for this section will use the Cunningham avenue entrance), and 10 cents for kiddies in the regular section reserved for the children. There will be an advance sale of the 50 cent tickets, but not the 35 or 10 cents, tickets, these going on sale an hour before game time at the field.

Bear Season To End Today

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 21. — The four day bear hunting season closed today with record kills reported in many counties.

Huntsmen estimated approximately 40 bears were slain in the Fishing Creek watershed of the Wyoming Valley and at least a score more in the Pocono Mountains. Unofficial sources figured the Potter County kill at 35.

In the vicinity of Kane, McKean County, at least 26 bears were brought down on the opening day of the season. Bear hunting this year was permitted in 57 counties.

The game commission disclosed that Fulton and Juniata counties will be closed this year to hunting of antlerless deer.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Several editions back, this daily block contained an item about Dick DeArment, the Bessemer athlete who walked into Texas A. & M. unheralded, asked for a football suit, got it and proceeded to win a starting berth over a crop of hand-picked Texas high school stars. At the heels of our concoction came an interesting letter from H. B. McElroy, assistant publicity director of the southwest school. . . .

McElroy, who undoubtedly planted a few acquaintances here when he sold one of the biggest selling cigars on the market, elaborates a bit more on DeArment's prowess on the gridiron. "We think this boy shows great possibilities in view of the fact that he beat out some of the highest touted Texas boys. He stands a bright chance of taking over the guard hole to be vacated by All-American Marshall Robnett," McElroy writes. . . .

"He never got a chance to show whether or not he was a great back—he looked too good crashing through the tough varsity line to smear conversion attempts. So they made a guard out of him. That, by the way, is how we get our best guards. Joe Routt, twice All-American, was a reformed fullback; so is Marshall Robnett, who will be picked by Colliers and AP this year. Perhaps we can sell Dick to the world as we did those two," McElroy concludes. . . .

Gridiron scramble—Columbia has never beaten Colgate. In eight meetings, the Lions' best efforts were a pair of deadlocks. . . . Texas was the last team to kayo Texas A. & M., on Turkey Day, 1938. . . . Manhattan will be gunning for its first triumph over Holy Cross, Saturday. In eight tiffs, the Crusaders won six and were deadlocked twice. . . .

John Rokisky, Duquesne University's extra point specialist, has missed but one conversion since the start of the 1939 campaign. Last year, Rokisky booted 14 in a row. He has muffed but once so far this season. . . . To avert mixups in downs, grid officials should adopt a gadge' to keep track of downs, something similar to a baseball umpire's strikes and balls indicator. . . .

Fans take it again — Following any smelly affairs in boxing, it seems that everyone gets what is coming to him but Joe Fan. Last Friday, a packed Madison Square Garden gallery paid to see Zivic and Davis fight. The scrap was halted in the second when Davis shot out eight straight foul blows. Davis has been suspended. But how about those fans who paid good American dollars to see something they didn't see?

To Emilio Pacelli: Joe Louis fought Tommy Farr once, in 1937. Louis was awarded the 15-round decision. . . . To A. W. Mercer, R. F. D. No 4: Will use your contribution within a few days. Thanks. . . .

EDDIE BYNUM TO FIGHT REALE IN ARENA RING

Eight battles, some of them 4-Star attractions will be staged by the Jefferson Athletic club in The Arena, New Castle, Monday night, the feature of which will be a three-round fight between Ted Delarado, welterweight champion of West Virginia and Eastern Ohio against Billy Garrett, winner of the Golden Gloves 147-pound title of McKeesport. The semi-final will be fought by Frankie Genaro, Golden Glove welterweight titlist of Youngstown vs Sonny Horne of Niles.

Delarado has fought several times in The Arena and scored the quickest knockout in the history of the Arena. Garrett believes he can take Delarado's masure. One week ago Monday, Genaro knocked out Jimmie West of Bellevue in the first round. Cocksure of winning from Horne several nights later he was fooled because Horne not only floored Genaro once but knocked him down twice and won the decision at Youngstown hence their return meeting here.

Another 4-Star fight should materialize when Eddie Bynum of McKeesport meets Billy Reale Castlewood farmer in a middleweight fight. Bynum scored a "kayo" over Tommy Yarosz just prior to Tommy's turn into the professional ranks.

Russell Baxter of New Castle, a welterweight will give Pete Misto of Youngstown a return bout. Baxter shaded Misto in a good fight recently at Grove City.

Over About 10 P. M.

A feature will be the Vargo twins of McKees Rocks. Gussie will box Chris Tabor of Niles at 142 and Sammy will swap blows with Melio Donelli of Niles at 135. Misto and Donelli have yet to lose in New Castle.

Billy Jackson, stablemate of Delarado will fight Al Kozeak of McKees Rocks, who has been described as the nearest fistic human to Willie Davies since the "Wee Welshman" fought Midget Wolgast in the Jolly box.

According to the Jefferson A. C. the fights will start at 8:30 p. m. and the battles will be over at 10 p. m. If necessary the main bout will be staged before the semi-final.

BUSINESS SESSION FOR RIFLE CLUB

There will be an important meeting of the New Castle Rifle club members at the Cathedral range tonight at 8 o'clock sharp, it was announced by Leo W. Hill president of the club. All members are urged to try and get to the meeting.

New York—Jim Noble, Fordham quarterback, suffered a knee injury in the North Carolina game.

Bessemer Eleven Will Be Honored At Fete Tonight

Denny Schill, Ellwood City, Main Speaker; Event Starts At 6:30 O'Clock

Bessemer High's 1940 football squad will be honored at a banquet tonight at 6:30 o'clock, in Bessemer High.

Denny Schill, popular Ellwood City sports figure, will deliver the principal address. A. G. Capezzuti, Bessemer coach, will be toastmaster.

The event is being staged by the school.

Comiskey Kayoes Cleveland Heavy

(International News Service)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 21—This was a happy Thanksgiving for Pat Comiskey, young Paterson, N. J. heavyweight, following his impressive third round kayo of Max Minnich of Cleveland in a scheduled ten round bout last night. The 205-pound New Jersey giant floored Minnich six times before the clincher.

In another ten-rounder Bob Sykes of Pine Bluff, Ark., outpointed Neville Beech of Memphis for the southern heavyweight title.

Tulsa university's victory over Detroit deprived Coach Gus Dorais of his 100th win with the Titans.

Arrest Ohio Man For Having Deer

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Nov. 21—An Ohio resident was arrested in Sandy Lake township yesterday for possessing and transporting deer out of reason. He is Fred John Berger, 6174 Broadview road, Parma, O., and is being held here pending his paying of a $100 fine.

Berger was arrested by W. J. Perry, deputy game protector in Sandy Lake township, he was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Thomas McClain of Mercer, and pleaded guilty to the offense and was sentenced to pay a fine or serve a sentence of 103 days in the county jail.

Berger's arrest was made after he drove his automobile in which he was transporting the deer, into a culvert. A passing motorist saw the deer in the rear end of the car and reported it to Game Protector Perry. About $100 damage was done to Berger's car.

The deer, a good sized doe, was taken to the Mercer County Children's Home.

Good day folks . . . rather misty . . . but that is very unusual weather for we here in New Castle . . . that is what you would say if you were under the power of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce . . . never admit that the weather is bad . . . but we are living in Pennsylvania and proud that we have that privilege.

It seems to be in the air to attend meeting where a war correspondent from some newspaper or newspaper service will do the talking. We like to go around and listen to them all . . . they tell their story in different ways . . . ways that start you thinking . . . Tomorrow night, that's Friday, the Townsmen will hold a dinner meeting at The Castleton and will have Ray Sprigle from Pittsburgh do the talking . . . all service club members and any one interested in this topic are invited to attend . . . please call Bob Hoose or Chris Clark before Friday noon in order that your dinner reservation can be made . . . Ray Sprigle, you remember made history when he exposed the K. K. K. . . . his talk will prove to be very interesting.

Several people have called in and asked just what the Johnson triplets need . . . in case you are wondering the same thing . . . we say just this, clothes, clothes and more clothes. We have here on our desk a complete list of clothing . . . if you would like to help them out . . . and can't find the time to go shopping . . . why not send in a little cash and we will have a member of the Red Cross do the buying and deliver the clothes . . . the right things will be bought and the right sizes . . . until we hear from you then.

The merchants along the main drag are getting busy for the Christmas season . . . big plans are being made to decorate the street for the event and buyers are busy checking in their merchandise . . . merchandise that was bought some time ago . . . merchandise that you will enjoy buying . . . so here's to a big Christmas for us all.

Some folks are modern and some are a little old fashioned . . . those who are modern are celebrating Thanksgiving today . . . we who are old fashioned like Abe Lincoln will celebrate Thanksgiving next Thursday . . . but we can all give thanks every day of the year . . . and I think we should all do that . . . no fooling.

Rescued from the grounded Canadian pulp carrier Novadoc which was smashed on the rocks off Juniper Beach, Mich., during the severe storm that swept the Great Lakes, these sailors are pictured as they reached shore. Work is being rushed on construction of the gigantic Santee-Cooper dam project, north of Charleston, S. C., to make its vast stores of electric power available for the defense program. DRUNKEN DRIVER CRASHES DOOR OF POLICE STATION

(International News Service)

OAKLAND, Cal.—When Oakland police receive a prisoner "special delivery" that's progress.

But when the prospective prisoner does his own "delivering" via the front door of the police station that's news.

Sergeant Willay A. Meyer was seated at the desk at eastern police station when the screen door of the station suddenly was shattered.

Rushing out Meyer found the automobile of Jack Scharpo, 32 ,parked on the front steps, with Scharpo at the wheel looking startled.

Meyer jailed Scharpo on a drunk driving charge, ordered the car removed from the steps, and repaired the screen door.

Plaintive inquiry addressed to stocks: "What's holding you down?"

KENTUCKY HANDS OUT FREE AUTO LICENSE PLATES

(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Free automobile license plates are being distributed here for the asking.

The state is not quite as generous as that may sound, for the free plates are passed out to those who bring in plates purchased earlier this year.

The red numerals on many tags have completely faded and this has resulted in several arrests of Kentucky motorists in other states.

License officials have several explanations but the most popular one is that the convict who was an expert at baking on the paint, was released and since then the prison made plates have been under his standard.

Florida interests are trying to popularize a bread made largely of grapefruit.

Thinks Turkey Should Be U. S. National Bird

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 21.—Concurring with Benjamin Franklin, Dr. Donald Matthews, Westminster college biology department, believes that the turkey and not the eagle should be "the national bird."

Dr. Matthews quotes Benjamin Franklin as having said: "I wish the bald eagle had not been chosen as the representative of our country. He is a bird of bad moral character, like those men who live by sharping and robbing, he is generally poor and often very lousy. The turkey is a much more respectable bird, and withal a true original native of America."

The Spanish conquerors of the 16th century, finding turkeys domesticated by the Mexicans when they conquered Mexico City under Cortez, took some of the turkeys back to Spain with them, according to Dr. Matthews. Later, the turkey was domesticated in France and England; and was brought to America as a barnyard fowl when the first settlers came to America.

"The turkey is a true American", Dr. Matthews believes.

The name "turkey", according to the biologist, comes from the call-note of the bird, which resembles the sound of "turk-turk-turk". Wild turkey hens lay their eggs hidden away from the turkey gobblers, since it is generally believed that the gobbler will break the eggs if he finds them.

"Not until President Lincoln's time, was a definite date set aside for Thanksgiving," according to Dr. Matthews. "In the time of the Pilgrims, the emphasis was put on the 'thanks', but today much more emphasis is put on the "feast" part of the holiday."

Telephone Employes Join Hospital Plan

Transfer To Pittsburgh Plan Which Now Covers All Hospitals In County

First into the new Pittsburgh Hospital Plan, it was announced today that the employes of the Bell Telephone company have transferred their memberships from the local Hospital Plan, Inc., to the Pittsburgh Hospital Plan. Recently it was announced that the Jameson Memorial hospital, the New Castle hospital and the Ellwood City hospital had merged their hospital plans with that of Pittsburgh in the interest of broader service to members.

Considerable interest has been noted in the hospital plan since the change over was announced. Dr. Wayne W. Bissell, medical director of the Jameson Memorial hospital, in commenting upon the new plan today pointed out that family dependents are charged nothing for 21 days hospitalization under the Pittsburgh plan. Under the present plan in service here, dependents are charged $2 per day for hospitalization. Under the Pittsburgh plan dependents receive the same hospitalization as the heads of the families.

The charge is slightly higher for family groups, 20 cents more per month for husband and wife, ten cents more per month for families. Membership in the Pittsburgh plan offers a choice of about 80 hospitals in Western Pennsylvania.

Full informations is being mailed to local members and it is anticipated that most of the membership will transfer to the Pittsburgh plan effective December 1
